CORRUPTION AND ITS IMPACT ON THE SOCIETY

Corruption is a complex social phenomenon. It is defined as the misuse of power and possessions for monetary gains. Corruption is now very common in our society. It has an adverse effect on the society in many ways.

Corruption makes the life of the common people miserable. Many people could not get any help from the government because of corruption. Therefore in India, there are millions of people who still live below the poverty line.

Corruption adversely affected the development of the country as well. Many projects of the government could not be completed in time because of the corrupt officials. We can say that corruption slowed down the process of the development of the country. For example, in India one of the most ^{big} scams (corruption) involving in the process of unified access service license in 2G spectrum. According to the CAG, the former Telecom Minister A. Raja has created norms at every level which was

In our daily life, most of us must have been witness to or a victim of the corruption thinner in most of the area. It could be in the form of a taxi-driver manipulating the meter to charge the passenger more money. This is one of the most ^{big} examples of corruption in some areas and also in our societies like Mizoram.

It can be said that "corruption is ^{anti} Anti-christian." It is against the teaching of Christianity. The Bible also said that a corrupt person could not have a place in heaven. Parents must also teach their children never to indulge in corruption.

We can also say that corruption is the greatest enemy of the society. We must work together against corruption. We must join hands together in fighting against corruption.

Besides, we must not respect a corrupt person. Instead, we must look down upon the corrupt persons and even their children. We can also write articles in newspaper about the evils of corruption.

Government also has an important role to play to remove corruption. If any government officials are involved in corrupting, the government must rightly punish such corrupt officials. Corruption affects a lot of things in the government. A corrupt person not only destroy himself but destroy the life of others.

Thus, we can say that corruption is the number one enemy of the society. It affects the life of people and destroy their future. If people and government work together, we will fight against corruption. We

In Bihar we do not get enough power supply. We can ~~feel~~ ^{suspect} the ^{power} supply department. This is because of the unfaithfulness of the in-charge department. Without giving out proper power supply, they ^{are} corrupt and they do not give out the amount of power which should be given out.

We the name ~~ourselves~~ Christian. But if we are not faithful in our work, we are only Christian for the name's sake. So, if we don't follow the laws and orders given by the government, we cannot name ~~ourselves~~ Christian. So, we the people also have to work together against corruption. If we work together
